Death Penalty for Boys Demand of State

HANGING SURE SAYS ATTORNEY FOR THE STATE

Declares He Will Prove to Court that Boys are Not Insane

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 22.—Death, life imprisonment or penitentiary terms of not less than 14 years are faced by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons, whose pleas of guilty to kidnapping and killing Robert Franks, have swept aside carefully prepared insanity defenses and thrown them on the mercy of the Judge, J. R. Caverly.

Only evidence tending to mitigate their punishment can be submitted without a jury at a judicial hearing beginning tomorrow. The prosecution which demands the gallows for the two university graduate students, who said they killed for experiment, plans to examine a hundred witnesses. The defense, hoping for a life sentence, expects to submit testimony of alienists regarding the mental responsibility of the youths.

May Take Three Weeks.

More than three weeks are expected to be consumed for the hearing. States Attorney Crowe intends to present all evidence collected by the state. His opening statement is expected to occupy all day tomorrow.

The parents of the two boys, estimated to have resources of more than $10,000,000, do not want them to have their freedom. Neither do they desire that their incarceration be in an asylum, as might have resulted had the insanity theory been pursued. Consequently the corps of alienists who made minute examinations and prepared voluminous reports in an effort to gain leniency.

"I am confident that both will be sentenced to hang," said Mr. Crowe. "The state is going to prove not only that they are guilty but that they are sane."

"Now we need no alienists. The defense cannot introduce testimony tending to show the boys insane. They can bring in witnesses or experts who may testify bearing on their responsibility."

Debt to Public Opinion.

The defense was moved to cast aside the insanity plea, defense attorneys said, because if they were adjudged insane their families would be injured by the reflection for succeeding generations. The debt to the public opinion, they said, also impelled discarding the theory.

"We did not wish the public to believe that we had gone into court and obtained the freedom of two boys who had committed murder on the plea of insanity," Clarence Darrow, chief defense attorney said.

"We felt," Walter Bachrach, Mr. Darrow's colleague said, "that we owed it to the public to avoid the spectacle which so often happens in cases of this kind in which a plea of insanity is followed by a remarkable recovery and subsequent release."

Little Great Handicap.

The wealth of the families was partly responsible for the pleas of guilty, Mr. Darrow stated.

"If these boys were poor," he said, "I am confident I could get a verdict of acquittal. Their wealth is a tremendous handicap."

"We have thrown ourselves on the mercy of the court because I believe that no where could there be gotten together a fair minded and impartial jury to try the case."

Young Leopold, whose study of birds had made him an authority on ornithology, was said by the attorney scientific apparatus ad books at the penitentiary. Both youths answered by the affirmative when asked by Judge Caverly if they realized their pleas might result in a death sentence.

Wondered About Publicity

Afterward when questioned by newspaper men the boys wondered what amount of space would be given in the newspapers regarding their appearance in court.

Back in the county jail, the prisoners were in contrast, Loeb expressing concern at the probable outcome Leopold maintaining his nonchalant air.

"Do you think the Judge will let us off with life?" Loeb questioned a guard. "They don't often hang fellows who plead guilty do they?" Leopold was quoted as having offered to lay a wager with a jail guard in the probable sentence.

ENGINEMEN OF WESTERN ROADS BEFORE BOARD

Abandon Their Plan to Disregard Summons
of Labor Body

Chicago, July 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engine-men, who had indicated they would disregard a formal subpoena to submit the wage controversy involving some ninety western railroads to the United States Railroad Labor Board, arrived today to begin preliminary negotiations with members of the board for the formal opening of the case on Thursday.

L. G. Griffing, grand chief engineer of the engineers, and D. B. Robertson, president of the firemen, were in conference at the labor board on a tentative program for the hearing of the controversy. Virtually every road west of Chicago, including all class "A" carriers are involved in the dispute.

The engine crafts, in consenting to submit the case to the board, are understood to have maintained the view that "a suspension of transportation" was not threatened by the disagreement as suggested by the board in making public its determination to assume jurisdiction of the controversy.

The willingness of the labor organizations to accept the summons of the board without contest obviates the possibility of a court trial to determine the right of the board to assume jurisdiction of a wage negotiation disagreement without the consent of both parties.

The engineers and firemen originally opened negotiations with the western carriers on the basis proposed in the spring agreement with eastern roads in which wage increases of approximately 5 percent were granted.

Protracted direct negotiations between the carriers and the brotherhoods in the case of the western roads, ended in a disagreement, which, in the view of the labor board threatened a "suspension of transportation."

The brotherhood chiefs denied that the board was authorized in demanding submission of the case and acting on that conviction tentatively determined to disregard the summons of the governmental agency. Later, it was determined, according to those in today's conference, that the good offices of the board should be sought in an attempt to settle the controversy.

Only the emphatic reservation that no suspension of service was threatened by the labor organizations was set down by the labor spokesmen today, as a basis for conference.

Boy Injured When Shell He Was Playing With Burst

FATHER OF SLAIN BOY TO BE FIRST WITNESS ON STAND

Jacob Franks to Open the Hearing in Chicago
Court Tomorrow

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 22.—Jacob Franks, father of the 13 year old victim of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers, will be the first witness for the state when the presentation of evidence begins tomorrow before Chief Justice Caverly in the judicial hearing destined to fix the punishment of the youthful intellectuals.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, who is in personal command of the commonwealth's case, will make a gesting the punishment—death—debrief opening statement, setting forth the aims of the prosecution and suggested by the state.

After the closing statement, the father of Robert Franks, the victim of the kidnapping escapade of the young college students will take the stand.

Advisory Conference
The hearing is purely in the nature of an advisory conference in which the opposing counsel will present arguments and evidence in support of the respective pleas for punishment.

Having yesterday entered formal pleas of guilty to the charges of murder and kidnapping, Leopold and Loeb face a certain sentence with the only question centering about the degree of severity.

After the statement of the father, the state plans to present expert testimony from several alienists designed to demonstrate the mental responsibility of the defendants.

The entire proceedings, it was stated today, should require about three weeks.

Safeguarding of Loan to German Chief Topic of Interallied Confab

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, July 22.—The guarantees provided for safeguarding the German loan with which it is proposed to launch the Dawes reparation plan, were the chief topic of discussion among the delegates to the inter-allied conference today.

The discussions between the financial delegates of the conference and the British and American bankers who are being relied upon to take up the bulk of the proposed $200,000,000 loan, which began immediately with publication of the findings of the committee on defaults and penalties, were continued.

The sufficiency of the financial safeguards which this report provides was a question which overshadowed every other issue in the discussions among the delegates, financiers and diplomatic experts.

Children Killed by Fumes from Heater in Automobile

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rockford, Ill., July 22.—Alex, 6, and Teddy, 8, sons of A. S. Thomas, Kansas City, Mo., Salvation Army evangelist, were found dead in the rear seat of an open automobile at Army Lake, Wis., yesterday morning. They had been overcome by fumes from a heater in the car. Two younger children from the front seat escaped harm. Oscar Johnson returned home last evening from a business trip to Chicago for the day.

Bathing Girl Stickers on Windshields Tabooed by Rockford Officers

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rockford, Ill., July 22.—Bathing girl "stickers" on the windshields and backs of automobiles add to the menace of driving through Rockford's congested streets, according to Chief of Police Hargren, who has ordered the silhouettes removed. Keeping one eye on the figure of the bather and the other on the road is an impossibility, the chief indicates, and fines will be asked for persistent offenders. The decorative craze hit the city about six weeks ago and many cars are plastered with the figures.

Three passengers were killed and an injured passenger died later in Newport hospital.

The Boston was beached off Newport but the tanker escaped serious injury.

SURVIVORS ARE LANDED

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Fall River, Mass., July 22.—The steamer Plymouth with at least ten survivors from the steamer Boston docked here today. One injured man was rushed to a local hospital.

The Fall River liner Commonwealth arrived at 11:20 a. m., with passengers from the Boston.

Mrs. Oscar Green of Brooklyn, N. Y., was killed in her berth. This was learned when her husband arrived here today on one of the rescue steamers.

INJURED TO HOSPITAL

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Newport, R. I., July 22.—The first injured passenger brought ashore from the steamer Boston was C. Copeland of Brookline, Mass. He was Copeland of the coast guard cutter landed by the coast guard from an Acushnet and was suffering from a fractured left leg, fractured shoulder blade and internal injuries.

Officers of the Acushnet said they had seen the bodies of two passengers on the Boston which it had been impossible to extricate from the wreckage.

Copeland died at the hospital this noon while the doctors were contemplating operation.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, July 22.—Three persons were killed and one was injured when the Eastern Steamship Company's liner Boston was rammed by the oil tanker Swift Arrow off Point Judith, R. I., early today, according to J. A. Coates, vice president of the company.

"All passengers have been picked up," Mr. Coates said. "The City of Lowell has put in at New Bedford, Mass., with a number of the passengers."

The Boston, bound from Boston to New York, sent out a wireless message this morning stating that several life boats, crowded with passengers, were missing.

The steamer, pride of the Eastern Steamship Company was reported taking in water rapidly through a hole in her side. She was being towed toward Newport by the steamship Commonwealth of the Fall River Line, but it was reported that it might be necessary to beach her, as she might sink almost without warning.

PERILS SEVEN BABES AS SHE TRIES SUICIDE

Assistant at Rockford Children's Home Attempted to Die

Rockford—Lives of seven infants at Rockford Children's Home were endangered for a few moments but none was injured in the least, Saturday night at 10 o'clock when Miss Marion Johnson, an assistant at the home tried to commit suicide by inhaling illuminating gas at the home while dependent following a quarrel with her sweetheart.

The young woman was discovered a few minutes after she had entered a few washroom and opened the gas jets. She was said to have been suffering more from hysteria than gas poisoning when rushed to the Swedish-American hospital. Sunday morning she had recovered sufficiently to go to the home of her parents.

Miss Johnson said she and her sweetheart had been out together early Saturday evening and quarreled "because he had been going with another girl." She was extremely nervous when she returned to the home at 10 o'clock. After conversing with officials for a few minutes she went upstairs.

Attendants soon detected an odor of illuminating gas in the home and rushing to the second floor found Miss Johnson in the washroom with the gas jets open. She was screaming for her lover and refused to leave the room. The police were notified and they took her to the Swedish-American hospital.

Seek Bigger Insurgent Bloc in U. S. Congress

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 22.—Determined to increase the strength of the insurgent bloc in the house and senate, those in charge of Senator LaFollette's independent campaign for president plan to let voters know, well in advance of election day, which congressional candidates they favor.

Tentative campaign plans worked out place endorsement of congressional candidates in the hands of the campaign committee of eleven members within a few days. Advisers of Senator LaFollette and of Senator Wheeler of Montana, his running mate, are of the opinion the committee should scrutinize carefully the records of all candidates.

LaFollette adherents here do not expect to have candidates in the field in every state and district but expect enough of their supporters to vote on the congressional ballots to give voters in sections where there is considerable LaFollette sentiment an opportunity to record their preference.

Thompson Boards Ship to Bid to Success in Search

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Alton, Ill., July 22.—William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, was aboard the sail boat "Big Bill" which tied up at Alton this morning for supplies. Mr. Thompson said that he would continue with the boat until reaching St. Louis and then return home to Chicago. He plans later to rejoin the crew at New Orleans where he will be present at a banquet celebrating the completion of the first lap of the two year cruise. Mr. Thompson said this morning that he regretted that he would be unable to make the entire trip and that he would probably bid the expectation "bon voyage" at Panama.

The "Big Bill" entered the Mississippi near Grafton, Ill., after coming from Chicago down the Illinois river. It is averaging about ten miles an hour, Captain Al J. Duken announced.

Movies of "tree climbing fish" said to abound the waters in the South Seas, is the purpose of the trip. Mr. Thompson has wagered $25,000 that he can produce evidence of the finny tribe that climb trees and he had outfitted the "Big Bill" to go in pursuit.

Precedent in Brevity is Desire of Dem. Candidate

Dark Harbor, Isleboro Maine, July 22.—A precedent in brevity is the goal of J. W. Davis in the preparation of his address accepting the democratic presidential nomination.

His idea now is to cover the field generally with emphasis on the more important issues of the day, such as honesty in government, foreign affairs taxes and tariff and farm relief.

While he has not determined upon even the framework his present intention is to confine the whole discussion to approximately 4,000 words.

The notification address to be made by Senator T. J. Walsh of Montana probably will be equally as brief so that the ceremonies at Clarkburg, W. Va., August 11 should be short.

NEW GRAIN SALES CORP. MET TODAY TO ADOPT BY-LAWS

Plans for Future Work of Corporation Will be Decided Upon

BULLETIN
By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 22.—The offer of the northwestern grain trade interests of marketing facilities contiguous to the Minneapolis and Duluth trade centers, was submitted without comment or recommendation today to the board of directors of the recently organized grain sales corporation by O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 22.—Directors of the recently organized Grain Sales Corporation, which it is hoped will take over for eventual producer-control the grain marketing facilities of five large marketing houses in Chicago and Kansas City, met today to consider problems of organization, adoption of by-laws and election of a permanent board to replace the tentative board appointed last week when the corporation came into being under the Illinois co-operative marketing act.

Another proposition scheduled to come before the meeting is the offer yesterday of important northwestern grain interests to sell marketing facilities in the Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota and great primary marketing Federation, which was the organization through which the Chicago and Kansas City firms tendered their businesses for farmer purchase.

News of the Minneapolis offer having reached farm bureau offices only yesterday, it was considered imprudent that any definite action on the proposal could be taken today.

Leaders in the present move to have the new corporation to take over control of the marketing facilities point out that under the charter of the organization additional properties may be taken over at will.

With only $4,000,000 now available in the coffers of the corporation, it is doubtful if new obligations can be successfully undertaken at this time. The value of the properties included in the original Chicago offer is estimated in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 exclusive of a number of country elevators included in the tentative plan, but not owned by the interests offering their properties.

Two More Paid Fines as Result of Crap Game Raid

Two more participants in the crap game at the Max Gerdes farm south of town Saturday night, which was the scene of a raid by police and sheriff's forces, appeared in court last evening and paid their fines. Frederick Cummings and George Burnett appeared before Justice Grover W. Gehant and were fined $10 and costs each. The man who was said to have presided over the table, was taken in custody at Polo yesterday afternoon and brought to Dixon by Sheriff Riley last evening. His case was continued until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and he was liberated under bonds of $200.

Max Gerdes, one whose premises the game was being conducted, has retained counsel and his case has been continued until Friday. Sheriff Riley is still calling in parties who were present in the garage Saturday night and warrants are being issued. Several others are to be called in and fined, it was intimated today.

Chicago Man Killed by Train at Davis Junction

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rockford, Ill., July 22.—James Keane, 33, of 2207 Nordika, Ave., Chicago, died at Rockford Hospital this morning from injuries received when he was run over by a train switching in the yards at Davis Junction. Keane is believed to have fallen asleep under a freight car on a siding.

Carrier Pigeon, Tired, Thirsty, Stopped Here

An exhausted carrier pigeon, extremely thirsty, alighted at the Gosport Monday afternoon, and was taken care of by Manager William D. Craig. On one leg the bird wore an aluminum band inscribed "1924 E. M. P. C. 24" and on the other was a rubber message band which the factory attendants did not disturb.

NEGROES WHO KILLED GIRL IN MOUND JAIL

Mob of Nearly 300
Were After Suspected
Murderers of Girl

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Mound City, Ill., July 22.—Two negroes suspected of slaying Miss Daisy Wilson, 18, in an attempted holdup of her father's store at Villa Ridge, shortly after midnight, were brought to the county jail here at noon today for safe keeping. A mob of several hundred men apparently intent on a lynching, was quelled when H. F. Moreland, a Ku Klux Klan organizer, spoke and prayed in front of the city hall at Mounds, three miles west of here. Several in the crowd were deputized by the Sheriff Hudson to guard the prisoners.

The negroes, who had been lodged temporarily in the Mounds jail within the city hall, then were rushed here. Sixteen armed deputies were placed as a guard around the county jail.

Bearing a new outburst of mob spirit, however, Sheriff Hudson was considering a proposal to take them to a jail farther from the scene of the crime.

The mob gained in number and rapidly gained in numbers as it chased the motor car containing Sheriff Hudson and his prisoners over a wide territory. Finally Hudson reached Mounds and placed the negroes in the city jail.

The suspects had been arrested at 7 o'clock this morning by Illinois Central Special agents at Mounds and taken to Villa Ridge for identification at first the slain girl's father, J. H. Wilson, who himself was severely beaten, was in his identification, however, when Robert Endicott, a neighbor, said they were the same negroes he had seen loitering in the vicinity yesterday afternoon. The arrest at Mounds came after a posse of about 200 men, led by Sheriff Hudson, had spent hours searching the countryside with the aid of blood hounds brought from Water Valley, Ky. The negroes had taken a trail and then lost it.

The situation here was quiet early this afternoon.

Injury Received in June Kills Davis, Ill., Man

As the result of an ill-natured holding shotgun exploding in his hands when he attempted to discharge the weapon to dislodge a swarm of bees from a tree in the yard of his neighbor, David Cook, of Davis, Ill., died at 8 o'clock Saturday night at a Freeport hospital, where he underwent an operation on June 28, following the fatal accident which occurred on June 10. Severe lacerations about the hands and face resulted from the explosion and, failing to respond to medical treatment an operation was performed in an effort to save his life. Subsequently his condition improved, but gangrene poisoning developed about 10 days ago as the result of another illness of long standing and he gradually grew worse until death came.

Yellow Taxi Co. Auto Burned North of City

One of the cars belonging to the Yellow Taxi company was completely destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock near the V. W. Teschendorf residence, north of Dixon. Foster Strub, one of the members of the firm, was driving the car at the time. Backfire is said to have started the blaze, which quickly consumed the machine. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Five Fined for Violation of City's Traffic Rules

Five more violators reported in the speeders' section of the police court yesterday and were fined. D. H. Sies, W. J. Seiser and Mrs. H. H. Woods paid fines of $3 and costs for disregarding the traffic lights. Wilbur Winn and John E. Wolfe were assessed fines of $10 and costs for speeding.

Today's Market Report

New Declines in Price

of Wheat on Trade Today
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 22.—New declines in the price of wheat took place early today owing to lower Liverpool quotations and to additional rains in spring crop territory. Optimistic advices, however, in regard to likelihood of settlement of difficulties about military occupation of the Ruhr tended to check weakness. Opening prices which varied from unchanged to 3/4 lower, September 1.25 1/4 to 1 1/4 and December 1 1/8 to 1 1/4 were followed by a moderate general setback and then something of a rally.

Warmer weather led to general selling of corn. After opening 3/4 to 1 1/2 off, December 91 to 1/2 the market reacted a little but continued weak. Oats eased down with corn and wheat, starting unchanged to 1/2 off, September 46 1/4 to 3/8 and later showing a loss all around.

Society

Wednesday.
King-Mt. Union Aid Society—Community House.

Prairieville Social Circle—Mrs. Howard Lambert, 606 13th Ave., Sterling.

Ladies' Aid Society Christian church—At church.

Thursday.
W. M. S. of Bethel U. E. church—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Altar of Palmyra.

Dorcas Society—Congregational church parlors.

W. C. O. F.—K. of C. Hall.

Ladies of the G. A. R.—Picnic at Petre cottage at Assembly Park.

Monday.

Golden Rule Circle—Mrs. Archie Klein, 605 First Ave.

Our exchanges are discussing the matter if in order to be polite, now that hair bobbing has come into vogue, instead of being "next" in a barber shop, it should be ladies first. A man might have been waiting his turn a half hour or a whole hour, and just as he is "next" a bevy of girls rush in and want a trim, or a neck clip, or a bob, should the man step aside and wait another half hour or more? It is not that way here. It is "next" and the girls seem to be satisfied to await their turn. They are equal to men and are willing to do as men do.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Kerosene and Borax.

To facilitate the washing of dirty clothes soak them in water containing a small quantity of kerosene and borax.

Cleans Mesh Bags.

You can clean a mesh bag by washing it with a soft brush in soap-suds containing ammonia.

Use Hot Vinegar.

You can remove the smoke from mica stove windows by washing them in hot vinegar.

Measuring Molasses.

To measure molasses quickly, dip the measuring cup or spoon in scalding water and the molasses will pour out quickly.

Clears Muddy Water.

To clear muddy water for laundry use stir in a scant tablespoon each of alum and borax, dissolved in hot water.

Spots on Floor.

Remove spots from oiled floors by sponging with turpentine.

Sharpening Needles.

When the needle on your sewing machine has become dull stitch for several inches through very fine piece of sandpaper.

Cold Foods.

During the summer months do not neglect to serve cold sliced meats, cold salads, cold jellied soups and other foods that may be prepared in the morning and kept in the ice box until needed.

Bread for Sandwiches.

The bread you use for sandwiches should be at least 24 hours old so that it will cut into as thin slices as you desire.

Lasts Longer.

Lettuce wrapped in waxed paper and then in a damp cloth will last for a long time and will be fresh when you take it out at picnics.

Preserves Bindings.

Leather book bindings can be freshened and preserved by the application of equal parts of milk and white of egg beaten together. Apply on soft flannel and polish with an old silk handkerchief.

ENJOYED DINNER AT ROCKWOOD SUNDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leake, Dr. and Mrs. Moss, Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Bardwell and E. W. Smith, enjoyed dinner Sunday at Rockwood, the beautiful summer place of E. W. Smith.

EDUCATION IS NOT ALL.

He was good and straight and respected for 49 years, and then—

Arthur W. Kent, old and broken, was taken to the jail at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

He had been schoolmaster, teacher of history, leader of a Sunday school class, general helper of and adviser to young ideas. Now he is at the end of things, for, in a brief two years, he wrecked a lifetime of honor.

Wife became sick. His salary never had been large as seems the sad lot of the school teacher, and grave need faced him. He fell.

A bogus check was passed. It did not save the wife and it destroyed him. His conscience pricked and he fled from his crime, fled from himself. Into the far places of the country he sped, always with the hand of the law reaching for him.

But he wrote other worthless checks—it was easy to defraud—but they only relieved the body but not the soul. His flight became more desperate. Always, always, the law was but a few steps behind him.

"I never knew happiness in those two years of flight," he says. "I never knew what it was to live blissfully or sleep soundly. Always fearing, always fleeing."

Now the law has caught him—caught him, an old, broken, helpless wreck, body and soul. "I have learned the lesson I have taught so many of my students," he tearfully says. "Education is nothing without moral stability."

Yes, he has learned the truth too late for himself, but in time to point a moral for others.

Education is not all. Character must be its companion, for brains that know not the leash of morality only make crime more hideous.

Poor, wrecked, old Kent knows this now and the best he can do with what is left of him is to offer himself as a terrible example.

HOARDS.

Four hundred million dollars is hidden behind the clock, under the mattress and in other nooks by Americans who are afraid of banks. So estimates a treasury official.

Bankers call this an economic menace, because hoarded money is idle instead of working to keep business active.

But there is a greater American hoard—the collective result of the habit of carrying too much money in pockets. This money, too, is idle and unproductive. How much "loose change" do you keep out of circulation, on the average?

SPEED.

A New York banker "warns workers to increase production and do away with unnecessary restrictions if the present high wages and high standards of living are to be maintained."

It is an old story, but true. The standard of living can be no higher than the sum total of production.

We can't use more than we produce, any more than we can eat more eggs than the chickens lay.

Anything that restricts production lowers the standard of living.

OUT.

New York exports more goods to foreign countries than any other state. Texas comes second. Third is Pennsylvania, with only half as much as Texas. This is shown by statistics of recent months. Most of the eastern states rank high in the list. They will wane as the center of gravity of our foreign trade gradually swings to the orient and manufacturing moves westward to be nearer its big markets and sources of raw materials.

This country's future is west of the Mississippi.

CORNER.

British rubber growers, who produce 72 per cent of the world's rubber, are forming a new selling combine to control world supply, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Americans are the largest consumers of rubber. Only two ways of protecting them from the high prices that inevitably result from organized near-monopoly. The first is artificial rubber, already accomplished, but price is prohibitive for auto tires. The second is to grow rubber on a big scale ourselves. Our best bet is the rapidly growing rubber plantations in the Philippine islands. Should be encouraged.

TRIVIAL.

Justice Benedict says: "There is far too much time spent in detection of the misdeeds of the ordinary offender against ordinances and regulations which involve no moral wrong, and too little time devoted to catching and punishing criminals possessed of influence of wealth."

It's a good deal like bootlegging. The nets usually are set for the minnows. A whale is caught only occasionally. It's more dangerous to steal $100 than a million.

CRUELTY.

A Texas cowboy, giving a speed demonstration of roping a steer, is arrested by the S. P. C. A. in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a charge of cruelty to animals. The technical charge is "twisting a steer's neck in cruel and unusual fashion."

Few of these people, who have such violent aversion about eating a juicy steak.

BLINDED.

More accidents to eyes than any other part of the body, among industrial workers, it's announced by National Committee for Prevention of Blindness. Every year 200,000 eye accidents in industrials. Of the 10,000 totally blind among Americans, 15,000 were blinded while at work.

If you earn your bread and butter near a machine or any chemical or other thing hazardous to sight, cut this out and paste it where you'll see it often.

By the time a fat woman gets her shoes laced it is too late to go.

There she was on top of a ladder.

Mrs. Cottontail, Cutie's mother, was cleaning house the day he went off to spend the afternoon and all his money at Happy Go Lucky Park.

If she needed him once she needed him a dozen times, and as she said, there he was, off gallivanting around just when she needed him the most. She needed him to bring the tack hammer, and she needed him to hold the step ladder, and she needed him to go to the store for more soap, and she needed him for everything.

And there he was off having a good time and not once thinking that he might be of use.

The more tired Mrs. Cottontail got the crosser she got and she got talking out loud to herself.

"I do wish that Mister Zip and his parks were at the bottom of the sea," she scolded. "And Nancy and Nick and everything and everybody in the park. Then maybe Cutie would stay at home sometimes when he's needed and not be off spending good money on trash."

She forgot how well she liked to pack up a basket sometimes and go to the park with the family for a day's rest and fun.

But she wasn't any different from other people, after all, for some way or other when people are tired and busy they always think other people have no right to have any fun.

But as for Cutie, I do think he'd no business going off and not helping his mother when she had so much to do! If he had just waited—

But there! The story is beginning to sound like a lecture and this is no place for lectures.

Well, anyway, while Mrs. Cottontail was scolding and scolding, the doorbell rang.

There she was on top of a ladder with a curtain in one hand trying to get it fixed on a curtain pole. She had to put the curtain down while she answered the door.

It was Mister Stamps, the postman, bringing the mail.

She put the mail on the hall table and went back to her work, grumbling about days she was expecting letters and nothing came and the very day she was so busy 'n all, didn't she have to stop and go to the door.

Then she went back to her curtain hanging.

"Where's that brass ring I had in my hand?" she said. "Where is it, I'd like to know. There were seven and now there are only six. Now the curtains won't match! Oh, dear! Did ever anybody have so much trouble!"

She put up the last curtain as well as she could and then went to get dressed and then she got supper.

Cutie came home hot and tired and happy just in time. And after that he went to bed.

"I'm awful tired, Ma," he said. "Say, I tore my pants today. Will you fix 'em, please I caught them on a nail."

"Sure I will, Cutie," said Mrs. Cottontail kindly, for after all she wasn't really cross at all, and she loved Cutie like everything.

So Cutie went to bed and Mrs. Cottontail did the dishes and then sat down to mend Cutie's trousers.

"Why, I declare, what's this?" she cried, feeling in one of the pockets and hauling out a brass ring. "Why, I declare, is that curtain ring I lost today. I wonder where he found it!"

And the good rabbit lady went at once and slipped it on the pole and fixed her curtain right.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

DEAR MOTHER:

I am awfully worried over what you have written me about father. If you think it will ease his mind any I will try and persuade Jack to send Mrs. Atherton back to him for awhile.

Poor old dad. He ought to have every bit of worry and responsibility taken off his shoulders now.

I could not help smiling, mother dear, that Alice intended to have such a big wedding. Do you remember that morning when she came in and bawled me out because I was going to have a large wedding? Said her idea was to go to the city hall and have the mayor do it.

She told me when I was in New York that she didn't want to live in this country after she had married Karl, but, mother, I wouldn't worry about that very much. I think we are apt to put too much stress upon having our relatives about us and most of us are happier if we only live in the same city with our own immediate family.

That was awfully sweet of dad to send me a thousand-dollar check. I am putting it with some other money that has come to me lately as a windfall and if Jack will only let me I would like to put it in a going business that I think I can obtain soon. He is so old-fashioned, though that I am almost sure he will not let me do this. He pretty near hit the ceiling when he found I had bobbed my hair. It is very becoming to me, mother dear, and I am sure you will be pleased with it.

I wish you would keep me posted very often on Dad's health. Dear old dad! You must not let Alice worry him too much; neither must you let her worry Karl more than is absolutely necessary. Poor old dear, I am afraid he is going to get a bad deal.

I wish you could see little Jack. When I arrived home, mother dear, he knew me. He is beginning to take a few steps and, although he is quite backward in talking, he says "Mama," "Papa" and "Nanna"—Nanna being, you know, his Grandmother Prescott.

You would smile if you should see how Jack's mother babies that child. When I got home I found that she had almost ruined his disposition. Why he wouldn't go to sleep unless some one rocked him. It took me three nights to get him over that one and I fully expected to be put out of the apartment house, for he yelled so but now he goes to sleep like the lamb he is.

I wish you were going to be here to our party. It is going to be just lovely, I think, and I am very glad, for this will really be my debut into the society of Jack's home town. You know I had that accident soon

RADIO PROVING WONDERFUL BOON TO BLIND PEOPLE

Puts Them in Touch With Rest of Humanity Any Time

Innumerable articles have found their way into print about the benefits of radio to the deaf, the sick, and to cripples who are bedridden, but scant attention has been paid to the inestimable boon which the new art of communication is proving to the blind.

At first thought, one might say, "Well there are not so many blind people." But unfortunately there are a great many—more than is generally realized. In the State of New York alone on January 1st there were 8,900 blind persons. The number of blind in the United States exceeds 100,000.

Numerous institutions for the blind in various parts of the country have provided radio receiving sets for their inmates, and in many homes where there is a blind person there is a receiving set. The day should come when every blind person in the United States should have one. The great majority of blind who enjoy radio now or will do so in the future will listen in at their own homes, for approximately four-fifths of the sightless are cared for at home instead of in institutions.

Appeals to the Blind

Radio appeals particularly to the blind because it puts them again in direct touch with so many phases of the world's activity from which their affliction has excluded them. Music, sports, lectures, plays and public gatherings are among the many resources of enjoyment and education which the new art brings to them. It is safe to say that they enjoy and appreciate radio more than ordinary people because it is a well-known fact that when a person is deprived of one sense, another becomes more acute; the ear of a sightless person is nearly always much more sensitive than that of the average individual. For this reason it is very important in building a set for a blind person to select the very best type of amplifying transformers which amplifies the sound without distorting it. The ear of a blind person is much more sensitive to poor tonal quality than the ear of a normal person.

Tells of Happiness

A blind man living in a suburb of Boston told the writer of the satisfactory results and the happiness he derives from such a set. Before he obtained the set, he said, some members of the family always felt it necessary to remain at home with him during the evening. Otherwise he would have been deprived of any recreation, and even then this was limited largely to conversation or hearing someone read aloud. Now that he has the radio receiver the dreadful monotony is relieved. He is able to amuse himself, and the variety of things which he can hear over the radio daily and nightly is practically unlimited. The members of the family are freed of the task of amusing him, and his whole life has been changed.

His receiver is so exceedingly simple that he has no difficulty whatever in adjusting it. As a matter of fact, any adjustment of a radio receiver is finally made by ear. Except for the fact that occasionally someone changes his batteries for him, he is independent in using his set and in providing his own recreation.

Without doubt, radio is more of a boon to the blind than to any other class of persons who, through infirmity or illness, are shut out from the ordinary pursuits and diversions of life.

Call letters for the new New York City broadcasting station are WNYC.

"I wish you were here"

When people go out on a vacation trip, they plan on a good loaf and rest. All worry, it seems, quickly loses it a grip as they shake off the bus'ness-time pest.

A trip to a lake or a summer resort just calls for a soul to relax. You turn from your work to a session of sport and you gain as your system reacts.

There are no set rules that are holding you down; you do as you like through the day. The sun turns your skin from a white to a brown when the beach is the scene of your play.

The people back home wonder just how you are; they hope you're enjoying your trip. You send them a postal from near or from far, and act that you mustn't let slip.

And what do you say, are you're signing our name? Just what is your message of cheer? On every vacation the cards are the same. You scribble, "I wish you were here."

When a 22½ volt B battery drops below 17 volts it may be considered useless.

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Trevelyan, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, is betrothed to Rosamund Godolphin; but because of personal enmity growing out of land disputes the marriage is opposed by both Rosamund's brother, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Kili-grew. Incensed at Sir John's reference to him as a "pirate," Sir Oliver engages him in a duel and defeats him. Sir John, recovering from his wounds, begins to feel that Oliver was somewhat justified in his resentment, though still regarding him with disfavor as a husband for his word.

Therefore, being whole again he went to remonstrate with her as he accounted it his duty and as Master Peter had besought him. Yet knowing the bias that had been his, he was careful to understate rather than to overstate his reasons.

"But, Sir John," she protested, "if every man is to be condemned for the sins of his forebears but few could escape condemnation, and wherever shall you find me a husband deserving of your approval?"

"His father!" began Sir John. "Tell me not of his father, but of himself," she interrupted.

He frowned impatiently—they were sitting in that bow of hers above the river.

"I was coming to it," he answered, a thought testily, for these interruptions which made him keep to the point robbed him of his best arguments. "However, suffice it that many of his father's vicious qualities he has inherited, as we see in his ways of life; that he has not inherited others only the future can assure us."

"In other words," she mocked him, yet very seriously, "I am to wait until he dies of old age to make quite sure that he has no such sins as must render him an unfitting husband?"

"No, no!" he cried. "Good luck! What a perverseness is thine!"

"The perverseness is your own, Sir John. I am but the mirror of it."

He shifted his chair and grunted. "Be it so, then," he snapped. "We will deal with the qualities that already he displays." And Sir John enumerated them.

"But this is no more than your judgment of him—no more than what you think him."

"Tis what all the world thinks him."

"But I shall not marry a man for what others think of him."

"Tis what all the world thinks him."

"But I shall not marry a man for what others think of him, but for what I think of him myself. And in my view you cruelly malign him. I discover no such qualities in Sir Oliver."

"Tis that you should be spared such a discovery that I am beseeching you not to wed him."

"Yet unless I wed him I shall never make such a discovery, and until I make it I shall ever continue to love him and to desire to wed him. Is all my life to be spent so?"

She laughed outright, and came to stand beside him. With her hand she rubbed his brow.

"Why, here are wicked wrinkles of ill humor," she cried to him. "You are all undone, and by a woman's wit, and you do not like it."

"I am undone by a woman's willfulness, by a woman's headstrong resolve not to see."

could not bring himself to look upon Sir Oliver as a suitable husband for her, nothing that he had now said must mislead Sir Oliver into supposing him a consenting party to any such union.

"But that," he added, "is not to say that I oppose it. I disapprove, but I stand aside. Until she is of full age her brother will refuse his sanction. After that the matter will concern neither him nor myself."

"I hope," said Sir Oliver, "he will take as wise a view. But whatever view he takes will be no matter. For the rest, Sir John, I thank you for your frankness, and I rejoice to know that if I may not count you for my friend at least I need not reckon you among my enemies."

But if Sir John was thus won round to a neutral attitude Master Peter's rancor abated nothing; rather it increased each day, and presently there came another matter to feed it, a matter of which Sir Oliver had no suspicion.

He knew that his brother Lionel rode almost daily to Malpas, and he knew the object of those daily rides. He knew of the lady who kept a sort of court there for the rustic bucks of Truro, Penryn and Helston, and he knew something of the ill repute that had attached to her in town—a repute, in fact, which had been the cause of her withdrawal into the country. He told his brother some frank and ugly truths concerning her by way of warning him, and therein for the first time the twain went very near to quarreling.

After that he mentioned her no more. He knew that in his indolent way Lionel could be headstrong, and he knew human nature well enough to be convinced that interference here would but set a breach between himself and his brother without in the least achieving its real object. So Oliver shrugged resignedly and held his peace.

There he left the affair, nor ever spoke again of Malpas and the siren who presided there. And meanwhile the Autumn faded into Winter, and with the coming of stormy weather Sir Oliver and Rosamund had fewer opportunities of meeting. To Godolphin Court he would not go since she did not desire it, and himself he deemed it best to remain away since otherwise he must risk a quarrel with his master, who had forbidden him the place. In those days he saw Peter Godolphin but little, and on the rare occasions when they did meet they passed each other with a very meager salute.

One day, a week from Christmas, he had occasion to ride to Helston on some trifling affair. For half a week a blizzard had whirled about the coast, and he had been kept chafing indoors what time layer upon layer of snow was spread upon the countryside. On the fourth day, the storm being spent, the sun came forth, the skies were swept clear of clouds and all the countryside lay robed in a sun-drenched dazzling whiteness. Sir Oliver called for his horse and rode forth alone through the crisp snow. He turned homeward very early in the afternoon, but when a couple of miles from Helston he found that his horse had cast a shoe.

He dismounted, and bridle over arm tramped on through the sunlit vale between the heights of Pendennis and Arwenack, singing as he went. He came thus to Smithick and the door of the forge. About it stood a group of fishermen and rustics, for in the absence of any inn just there this forge was ever a point of congregation. In addition to the rustics and an itinerant merchant with his packhorses there were present Sir Andrew Flack, the parson from Penryn and Master Gregory Balne, one of the justices from the neighborhood of Truro. Both were well known to Sir Oliver, and he stood in friendly gossip with them what time he waited for his horse.

It was all very unfortunate, from the casting of that shoe to the meeting with those gentlemen; for as Sir Oliver stood there, down the gentle slope from Arwenack rode Master Peter Godolphin.

DIXON GOLFERS ENTER TOURNEY AT BELVIDERE

Will Take Part in Annual Ill.-Wis. Assn. Meeting There

Belvidere—Much interest is being evinced in the forthcoming Illinois Wisconsin Golf association tournament to be played over the BelMar Country club links August 6 and 7 and August 13 and 14.

The first dates are for men and the second for women.

Entries have already been received from the following clubs: Freeport, Beloit, Dixon, DeKalb, Sinsinissippi, Ingersoll, Harlem Hills, Janesville and partial assurance from Woodstock. BelMar will also enter.

The play will be 72 holes against bogey.

Each team will be composed of six players.

The annual meeting of the organization will be held August 6, the evening of the first day of play, when officers for the year will be chosen and other business transacted. A banquet will also be served that evening to officers of the association and players.

Plans are being made to entertain 75 players on the first days of play.

Charles Beach, Rockford expert, had the individual low score last year when he belonged to Sinsinissippi-Ingersoll, but this year he is a member of Harlem Hills.

Officers of the association are S. G. Gossard, Belvidere, president; Ezra Miller, Freeport, vice-president; and Gordon D. Laing, Belvidere, secretary and treasurer.

Members of the association are: BelMar, Beloit, Dixon, Edgewood of Polo, Freeport, Glencrest of Woodstock, Harlem Hills of Rockford, Kishwaukee of DeKalb, Janesville, Rock River of Sterling and Sinsinissippi-Ingersoll of Rockford.

United States Cinches Honors in Paris Games

Athletes From America Carried off Eight Championships

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, July 22.—The chief battle for Olympic titles ended yesterday when the United States, by making a clean sweep of five tennis championships, clinched first place in all-round scoring. Four branches of competition, however, remain before the official closing ceremonies, July 27 and three of these, equestrian sports, yachting and weight lifting, will be resumed today.

An American team is among the equestrian competitors, but the only other sport in which the United States is seeking honors is cycling, which starts tomorrow. The United States came out victorious in eight out of sixteen events and piled up a total of 95 points, more than double that of their nearest rival, France, which has 47. France jumped to second place by scoring heavily in tennis, gymnastics fencing and the modern pentathlon. Great Britain is now third with 38 points and Finland fourth with 34 points.

The United States carried off championships in eight fields, including track and field, rowing, swimming, tennis, boxing, catch-as-catch can wrestling, rugby and target shooting.

In the tennis competition the Americans finished with a total of 55 points, nearly double that of France, the nearest rival, which had 28 points.

Fine Scores in Qualifying Play at Hinsdale Club

Prospective Opponents of Chick Evans Show Form on Course

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 22.—Competition was keen today in the second 18-hole qualifying round of the Western Amateur Golf championship at the Hinsdale Golf club as 62 players scored better than 80 yesterday in the first round and only a few of the 151 starters turned in really bad scores.

While Captain E. F. Carter of Chicago led the scoring with a 69 at the start of today's struggle, he was closely pressed by some fine golfers, no fewer than four being within one stroke of him and a dozen others within striking distance of medal honors. As there were 30 players with 75 or better it appeared likely that 152 would be about the highest scores that would admit any of the 31 players to match play along with Chick Evans who does not have to play in the qualification, owing to a rule admitting the titleholder without that effort.

James Munion of St. Louis tied at 79 with three Chicagoans for second score and Frank Dyer of Memphis, shared a 72 with John Dawson and Art Sweet of Chicago, there being no scores of 71.

Harrison Johnston of St. Paul held one of two 73's shot Monday, while Ed Cornish of Little Rock, Lawson Watts and William Medart of St. Louis had three of the four 74's made.

Amboy Trimmed Lee Center in Extra Inning Contest

Amboy defeated Lee Center in a wild extra-inning contest Sunday at Lee Center, showing over three men in the tenth inning for the victory.

The battle was full of argument and the umpire had a most unhappy afternoon. The victory was Amboy's only one in the series of three games between the two teams. Next Sunday the Dixon Greys go to Lee Center, and the fans, figuring these are the two best teams in the county, anticipate a real battle.

Tunney and Carpenter Complete Hard Training

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, July 22.—Satisfied he is in the best condition of his career, Gene Tunney today will terminate his hard training and indulge only in light exercise tomorrow on the eve of his battle with Georges Carpentier.

Carpentier completed his stiff workouts, Sunday.

Firpo to Meet Rickard and Talk Coming Fight

New York, July 22.—Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, whose arrival in the United States was complicated by a six hour detention by the immigration authorities, is scheduled to confer with Tex Rickard today in regard to his forthcoming battle with Harry Wills, negro challenger.

He spent last night at Astoria, L. I., following his release from Ellis Island.

Dixon Fight Fans Will See Good Show at Aurora

Dixon boxing fans are assured a splendid entertainment Friday evening of this week at Jim Mullen's bowl near Aurora, the bill consisting of four ten-round contests between evenly matched pugilists. For the main event, Mike Dundee of Rock Island will meet Harry Katsakoff of St. Louis. Joey Sanger of Milwaukee who claims a knockout over Sammy Mandell will meet Eddie Anderson of Mobile. Harold Smith of the stock yards, Chicago, is matched to clash with Ray Jeffries of Chicago. Henry Leonard of South Chicago will meet Charlie Rainmond, featherweight champion of Europe and member of the Georges Carpentier stable of boxers. The first bout will start promptly at 8:30.

PHILADELPHIA—Low Tender of Philadelphia and Bobby Barrett of Heights Pa., fought ten hard rounds to a draw.

CINCINNATI—Joe Anderson of Covington, Ky., scored a technical knockout over Pinky Mitchell, Milwaukee, junior welter weight champion in the eighth round of a scheduled ten round bout.

ST. LOUIS—Pancho Villa, world fly-weight champion, won over Willie Woods of Scotland.

St. Louis Star Hero of Year's First No-Hit Game

The first hitless game of the big league season goes to the credit of Jesse Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who turned in a pitching classic against the Boston Braves, scoring a 5-0 victory. Haines walked one batter in the first, and two in the sixth. These were the only men to reach first base. No Cardinal player was charged with an error and not one hard chance was fired at any fielder during the game.

land. Firpo was given a hearing on the charge of having an "insufficient vise" on his passport. He was finally admitted to the country as a "visitor".

Miss Blanca Lourdes, a Cuban, who says she is a friend of Firpo, was detained on Ellis Island last night. Immigration officials said she would be released today on $500 bond guaranteeing her sailing for Cuba, her intended destination, on the next boat.

TYGERS WALLOPED YANKS IN OPENER OF CRUCIAL SERIES

Giants Lost, Cubs Won and Cut Lead to Six Games in National

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York sits less securely on its American League throne today as a result of its first tussle with Detroit in a series of four games which promises to go far toward shaping the destiny of both the teams for the 1924 season.

The Tigers' victory cut the Yank lead to half a game. Washington kept within one contest of the leaders by defeating Chicago, which retreated to the respectful distance of six games behind the Senators.

The Detroiters scored nine runs off Hoyt and Bush, while Whitehill held "murderer's row" to seven markers.

Lyons Took Punishment

In losing a 16 to 2 decision to Washington, Lyons of Chicago took more punishment than any pitcher has been forced to undergo in many moons. Although the Senators pounded the White Sox boxman for 18 safeties, Manager Evers compelled him to go the full route.

While Kolp mesmerized Philadelphia, St. Louis touched up Helms and Rommel sufficiently to register a 4-2 triumph.

Boston resignedly accepted its ninth straight defeat as Cleveland nosed out a 2-1 victory in the last inning.

The Giants continued prodigal of their once seemingly fool proof lead in the National League and reduced their margin over the Cubs to six games by dropping another to Cincinnati, while Chicago was drowning Boston. McGraw's men surrendered by a score of 8-7 after 11 grueling innings.

Cub Kid Makes Good

Starting his first game for the Cubs, Miltstead held the Braves to five hits and Chicago scored a 7-1 win. Hartnett hit his 13th homer of the season.

With Dazzy Vance holding Pittsburgh in the palm of his hand, Brooklyn was returned a 6-2 winner in the first game of a double header, but the Pirates turned the tables in the second to the tune of 4-2.

Jesse Haines' showing against Philadelphia, would indicate that he pitched himself out in his no hit, no run effort last Thursday.

The Phillies got to him for 15 bingles, which they converted into a 7-4 victory over St. Louis.

Sox Minus Two Vets

Chicago's White Sox are minus the services of Harry Hooper and Johnny Mostil, the former suffering from a charley horse" and the latter with a swollen thumb.

Eppa Rixey's record of scoreless innings came to an end yesterday, when Frank Frisch touched him for a triple and then scored on Kelly's single. It was the first run scored on the Red's star in 34 innings.

The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox have been given permission by Baseball Commissioner Landis, to tour England, France, Germany and Canada this fall.

Smallest Yacht in Race

Winner of Chicago Event

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 22.—The Sall, small-est yacht in the 331-mile Mackinac Island race, has unofficially been declared the winner, according to word received here today.

The former Lipton cup racer, owned by Ben Carpenter, was seventeen-th across the line, but with her big time allowance had the best corrected time. The Dorello, J. C. Van Dyke's Milwaukee sloop was the first to cross the finish line.

The big schooner Ranger, Commodore Brown's Milwaukee entry, made a bid for second honors by reaching the goal after the Dorello. The Dorello finished with elapsed time of 48:13:24 and corrected time 44:45:23.

New Amboy Restaurant

Opened by Dixon Firm

Amboy—A. C. Kauffman and firm enjoyed a motor trip to Dixon, Sunday evening.

The management of the Manhattan cafe at Dixon have opened a new eating house in Amboy which is known as the Illinois restaurant.

J. L. Glassburn and family are enjoying a two weeks' outing at the Black Hawk cottages near Grand Detour.

Sidney Eichler returned to Amboy, Monday morning after spending Sunday in Dixon.

Amboy's baseball team and its supporters have cause to be jubilant. They went to Lee Center, Sunday afternoon and there met the mighty Lee Center team. It was a bitter contest and lasted for ten innings. Amboy sent three men over the plate in the tenth, scoring a shut out.

Mr. and Mrs. William Naza and daughters, Irene, Lucile and Bernice, of Peoria motored to Amboy, Sunday and were entertained at the John Burke home.

Miss Margaret Burke, who has completed the first summer term at the Northern Illinois Teachers' College at DeKalb, came home Friday to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Burke. She returned to DeKalb, Monday, to register for the second summer term.

Is This Tuxedo Correct?

When the sun grills one like a chop upon a spit, it is natural that men should wish to take liberties with established usage in clothes, particularly evening wear. Living down the heat seems to be of more consequence these days than dressing up to a standard. Americans, anyway, are more independent about such things than foreigners. Abroad, they swathe themselves and sweater, deeming polite martyrdom an unavoidable debt to good form. Even coats are kept on when playing cricket, golf or tennis or punting on the Thames. Shirt-sleeved sloth is frowned upon as beneath the dignity of a gentleman.

There is something to be said for each view. If a man feels "fair whacked", as the Englishman puts it, through wearing heavy, heating clothes on a sultry Summer night, he is an object of distress to himself and a pity to others. Contrariwise, to wear the regulation Tuxedo suit regardless of the weather accustoms a man to abide by the recognized rules of dress and, thus, helps to preserve the social and cultural graces.

Strictly reckoned, the turnout, portrayed in the accompanying sketch is incorrect. Though not to be commended, it cannot be utterly condemned, because so many men insist upon wearing it in the thick of the heat. It consists of the conventional Tuxedo jacket of black unfinished worsted; the white linen or cotton waistcoat, single or double-breasted and white flannel or worsted trousers. Thus, this outfit is formal from the waist up and informal from the waist down. It is not half bad, nor yet wholly good, representing an awkward attempt to compromise between What's What and What's Not.

Now and then, a navy-blue double-breasted jacket is substituted for the Tuxedo at a Summer dance, the accessories, being, of course, informal. This effect, however, is inexcusably bad, as it has no trace of the ceremonious about it. To avoid criticism you are well advised to wear the regulation Tuxedo suit with black silk or silk-and-satin waistcoat and trousers of the same material as the jacket. The style shown is presented because it is in use, not in fashion, and, therefore, is deserving of mention.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly run-down and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."

John Ainsley Master Thief BY Arthur Somers Roche

Copyright 1924, NEA Service Inc.

THREE NEWELLIED CASKIET

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—preying upon other thieves.

One afternoon on Fifth Avenue he knocked down a man whom he sees abusing a woman, and then runs.

Now go on with the story

The grocer grinned. "It ain't hard to remember them," he said.

"That's exactly my point," I told him. "You give me a list of your customers who pay their bills promptly, and I'll give you five per cent on every sale I make. And for your trouble, so you'll know your time isn't wasted, I'll give you twenty dollars right now."

"Fair enough," said the grocer enthusiastically. And he took me into his office.

An hour later I left him, armed with a list that would have been worth money to a yellow newspaper. For the great public would have been interested to know that some of its fashionable idols never paid a bill, even a food-bill, until a court summons was served upon them.

For the grocer, a simple-minded soul, had given me the names of those to avoid as well as those to visit. He would have been surprised had he seen me, in my own apartment a little later, carefully destroying his list.

I wished none of its details. What I wanted to find out from my friend the grocer was the personnel of the household before which Anderson's town-car had stopped. And who should know that personnel better than the tradesman who supplied the house with food? And this I had learned in casual conversation without seeming to ask for information.

The Duc de Montarlier, then, was the gentleman who had rented furnished for a term of twelve months the private house on the sidewalk near the Avenue. He was a distinguished-looking Frenchman. Ah, how well I knew that! His secretary, Raoul Lotter, a hunchback, paid all his bills, and paid them every week. The Duc had no other French servants. He had acquired a staff of Japanese help from an employment agency, and so far as my friend the grocer knew, the Japs not only did the ordering but ran all the domestic machinery. There were no women employed in the house. Visitors? My grocer did not know.

I spent that evening in the public library, going over the files for the past winter, of that New York paper which devotes most space to the chronicling of social events. Yet, carefully as I studied the so-called society columns, I never ran across the name of the Duc de Montarlier.

The White Eagle, then, had acquired no social prominence. That meant one of two things—that he dared not risk recognition, or that he was working with a definite objective and not merely making the acquaintance of numbers of rich persons whom he hoped to rob. It was then safe to assume that Marcus Anderson was his definite objective. Certainly Anderson was rich enough to be a legitimate game for the Frenchman, and despite his wealth, stupid enough to make the White Eagle feel certain of success.

But he had not robbed Anderson yet. That was obvious. The White Eagle was not the sort to linger on after the carcass was eaten. In bed that night I asked myself again the question: what, when and how?

THE morning papers answered me. For they chronicled yesterday's auction, and in mentioning the purchase of the gold box by Marcus Anderson, added the illuminating line, "who sails for South America on Thursday to settle the final details in the amalgamation of various cattle-interests of the Argentine."

Today was Wednesday. The White Eagle cultivated no acquaintance without reason. He was friendly with Anderson because he intended to rob him. That robbery had not occurred yet. If it had occurred last night, it would occur today or tonight. And how would I turn this knowledge—for it was knowledge; I knew criminals, and more than others I knew the White Eagle—to my own profit?

Frankly I studied the situation. The White Eagle, by posing as a no-bieman, had ingratiated himself with Marcus Anderson. Doubtless he had flattered the millionaire by refusing to meet Anderson's friends. He must have told his prospective victim that he did not care to know many Americans. For if a Frenchman met many people, attended many dinners, his presence in this country could not be kept from the papers. The White Eagle had been very friendly with Anderson at luncheon at the Mirabeau. They were, seemingly, intimates. Some time to day, then, the Frenchman would call upon Anderson to say farewell, and then the robbery would take place.

And there would be no other guests present when the White Eagle made that call. I could be sure of that. My reasoning told me that, anxious as Anderson might be to advertise his friendship with the Duc, the White Eagle would have forbidden such exploitation. There would be no others present at the White Eagle's call.

I rid myself of my excitement. If my logic was correct, the thing for me to do was to watch Anderson's house when I have, regretted the lack of assistants. A few spies to report the situation, to map out the ground—but a single link is more powerful than a chain, because it has no joints. If I failed because I lacked followers, I could console myself by thinking of the hundreds, aye, thousands, of men who have gone to jail because their confederates betrayed them.

But I hated to fail. From the first moment when in a Paris dance-hall I had seen Cochet, the memory of his arrogant conceit had lingered with me. I would rather rob him than have access to the vaults of the Treasury. And if one man could outwit him, I would be that man. So I lingered that Wednesday night in the basement arway of a house opposite the mansion of Anderson. Yesterday's balmy atmosphere had not lingered until tonight. It was bitterly cold; yet excitement and the fear of being discovered by a passing policeman kept me warm. A highwayman I relied on wit and surprise for my success. Why, then, was I lurking in this arway? Before I answered this question, I tried to put myself in the White Eagle's place.

He had cultivated Anderson's acquaintance for the purpose of robbing the millionaire. That robbery must occur tonight or be indefinitely postponed. It would be a robbery of finesse and subtlety; the White Eagle would not resort to violence save in the last extremity. Now, if the robbery were one of violence, the White Eagle's departure from Anderson's house would be a pell-mell affair. Into such an affair I would not thrust myself.

On the other hand, if finesse and subtlety won the battle, the two criminals would leave their host in leisurely fashion. In that case, where would they go?

I could not believe that the White Eagle had brought with him many of his Parisian followers. To do so would be to court suspicion. The French police, keep in fairly close touch with the detective bureaus of other countries. It might be possible for the White Eagle and one or two companions to slip quietly out of France without attracting notice. But if he took many of his followers with him, he would be running an unnecessary risk.

It was fair to assume, then, that in this American venture of his, he was working practically alone—in which case he would not have many different rendezvous where he and his followers could meet. Also, the White Eagle, like any great general—and he was that—prepared in advance for defeat. He would not wish to flee blindly in the event of victory; and in case of defeat it would not perhaps be necessary to flee. In other words, if the White Eagle did not succeed in robbing Anderson, he would return quietly to the house which he had rented. And if he succeeded in robbing the millionaire, he would probably return to that house. In his stay of several months in New York he must have acquired certain things of value and of bulk, which he would wish to take with him in the event of flight. And probably, unquestionably, if I knew the man, he would accomplish his purpose so subtly that he would have a start at least an hour or two before his crime was discovered.

Having no followers here to guard other rendezvous, it was almost inevitable that he would return to his house. I was cooling my heels to no purpose here.

So I went to the side-street on which the White Eagle lived. Arrived in the neighborhood of his house, and following the same train of reasoning which had brought me here, I decided that he must have let his servants go for the night, if he had not, indeed, discharged them. Nothing venture, nothing gain! I boldly rang the bell at the servants' entrance slightly below the street level. I rang it half a dozen times. And then I did something which I rarely do, but at which I am extremely capable. I picked the lock and entered the house.

STATEVILLE, CITY OF EXILES, IS SOON TO OPEN AT JOLIET

New Penitentiary Will be Complete City in Itself, Builders Say

Joliet, Ill., July 22.—Stateville, the "city of exiles," enclosed by a reinforced concrete wall more than a mile and a quarter long, will soon be complete. Builders of the new $5,000,000 penitentiary near here announce that by the end of the year 2,000 prisoners will be housed within the 65-acre plot, surrounded by the huge wall, which is said to be a marvel of engineering science.

Stateville will be a city complete. Workshops, bakeries, barber shops, power and heating plants, and gardening plots will take care of every necessity. A very small amount of outside materials will be needed to keep the city in operation.

The prison walls enclose the main buildings and garden plots, as well as the new cellhouses. Outside the walls nearly 2,500 acres of land, rich in quarry materials, will furnish employment to the men who cannot be employed in the workshops and in the warehouses.

Central Dining Hall
In the center of the enclosed space is a low circular building, with grating windows. Here are tables and chairs seating 2,000 men. Breakfast, dinner and supper is served in this circular dining room, cafeteria style.

From Equidistant points about the dining room enclosed passageways extend, spiderlike, to the eight circular cell-houses, all the same distance from the dining room. Each cell-house, built in the same manner as the central dining room, has four tiers of cells, with a spiral passageway winding about the interior of the building. The cells are all "outside" rooms, having an outside window in a place where the sun will enter for at least two hours a day.

One Guard in Each House
A single guard in the observation tower, placed in the center of the cell-room, has perfect observation of every prisoner, since the cell doors are made, not of heavy bars, but of a strong combination of steel and glass. The cell doors are locked and unlocked by the central guard, through a hydraulic pressure system.

One will be assigned to each cell, according to present plans. Each cell-house has been designed to provide 248 cells. Every cell is provided with a lavatory, hot and cold water, steam heating, electric light, a bed and a chair and table. The walls and ceiling are enameled. Ceilings are buff, the walls a light green, with darker trimmings. Every corner is rounded so that there is no place for dirt to lodge.

Cellhouses Innovation
The circular cellhouses, an innovation in prison architecture, were designed by W. Carl Zimmerman, Chicago, former state architect, after a personal inspection trip of the largest penitentiaries of the United States and Europe. Suggestions for the betterment of the new prison were offered by John L. Whitman, warden of the old prison, who has made a study of penology, throughout his many years work with the state prison.

Outside the walls are the administration building, residences of the warden and the deputy wardens, a dormitory for the honor prisoners, and an entrance room for examination of prisoners who have just arrived.

"Trustees' Outside Walls"
Honor prisoners, who have reached the point of "trustees" to the warden, are given work in the administration building, or positions as supervisors of workshops. They are allowed the freedom of the grounds and frequent use of the near vicinity of the prison.

During the construction of the new state prison as many as 600 convicts have been employed on the work. At the present time, 700 men have moved to the new prison from the old location in Joliet, and the remainder will be removed within the year.

It should not be necessary for our city commissioners to notify you that your place needs cleaning—you should see this yourself and attend to it and do your part in helping to keep Dixon as "City Beautiful." Let's ever keep before us that a "City Beautiful" is an end much to be desired and is worthy of the best thoughts and efforts of its citizens.

Plea for All to Help in Making of Dixon City Beautiful

(By Chamber of Commerce)
Few people ever come to Dixon without commenting upon the beauty of the city, the general atmosphere of contentment that seems to prevail in its homes, the air of prosperity that is reflected by its beautiful residences and well kept lawns. Visitors who make this out-spoken comment do so not for the purpose of winning the favor of the local citizen, but because it is their honest view.

Those who have observed other cities and towns in the same class as Dixon, know that Dixon is far above the average when real beauty is taken into consideration. This reputation that Dixon has gained is due to the pride that the citizens have taken in their homes. It can be made more attractive by continuing to improve our homes and lawns, vacant lots, streets and public buildings.

People who live in pleasant surroundings are more contented and are better citizens—contentment should be the ambition of every one. A community that makes beauty of its surroundings one of its principle goals, will not go backward, because such an aim means alertness and the desire to do better.

There are still a few places that need cleaning up—a few vacant lots where the weeds have grown up and give a very unsightly appearance. There are always a few that need attention, that are neglected by the owners. Let us see that these are taken care of at once. It should not be necessary for our city commissioners to notify you that your place needs cleaning—you should see this yourself and attend to it and do your part in helping to keep Dixon as "City Beautiful." Let's ever keep before us that a "City Beautiful" is an end much to be desired and is worthy of the best thoughts and efforts of its citizens.

Boulevard. Stop!

(By Chamber of Commerce)
Every citizen of Dixon should respect the decree of the new City Ordinance, making Galena avenue a boulevard stop. All motorists must obey the provisions of the law, but the motorists of Dixon in particular must set the example of obeying the letter of the ordinance.

It has been gratifying that in most cases the new ordinance has been lived up to, yet there are a few of Dixon's leading citizens who persist in breaking the boulevard stop law. It is up to citizens of Dixon and older motorists to set the example to visitors and to our younger generation. If the older motorists are lax and break the law, then they are only setting a bad example and in a way helping to make criminals out of the generation that is coming on to take their places.

While it is going to take a little time to become accustomed to the new provisions of the traffic law, which provides for a complete stop on approaching Galena avenue, and a slight inconvenience to motorists, this inconvenience may avert a serious accident, and possibly the saving of a human life. What is inconvenience, or even hardships, measured with the life of a child?

The streets are all plainly marked where it is necessary to stop and there can be no excuse for violating the law. Our City Commissioners created the boulevard stop in the interest of safety, both for the motorists and pedestrian. The policemen have been very patient in instructing the motorists and we should feel very friendly towards them for the manner in which they are handling all motorists. Let every citizen respect the boulevard stop law and obey it to the letter.

The enameled steel burners on New Method Ranges are as light as an aluminum pan and can be easily and quickly removed.

A slight movement of the hand and it is left out lightly ready for washing. Being enameled inside and out it has a bright smooth finish that is readily cleaned. Guaranteed for five years.

This means a more efficient burner because a burner must be clean to be efficient. And besides, cleanliness is always preferred to greasy black-looking kitchen equipment—absolutely sanitary, too!

Swinging Simmering Burner and Lighter. Here's another exclusive feature of New Method Ranges. Wonderfully convenient. A light touch moves the little burner from one side to the other.

Come in and let us show you the New Method Ranges. Steel construction throughout. Beautifully enameled. Easy to keep clean—surprisingly low priced. Note in column to the right five outstanding patented features.
